Mrs. Blanning, between convulsions, spoke of her little daughter.

"Mildred was so proud of her school work. She would bring her books home and would try to teach her little brother. When we were ordered to have her vaccinated within five days, she begged so hard to have it done we just couldn't refuse her request."

Mrs. Blanning went on to describe the symptoms of the disease.

"Her face was the first thing notice."

Between $21,000,000 and $25,000,000 of reserves, it is estimated, will be released in this district for loan purposts. Heretofore this sum has lain idle in the vaults of the national hanks which were reserve institutions. Under the rules and conditions fixed by the act and by the Federal Reserve Board, this money will now become available for rediscounting purposes, and will eventually find its way into the channels of trade.

These show that loans and discounts have been extended, and that during the six weeks that clapsed between the last two calls of the Comptroller of the Currency, the assets of the banks of this city increased nearly $700,000. creased nearly $700,000.

LONDON, November 14.—German activity in the air, on the sea and beneath it, all threatening the English const, has caused considerable excitement in London. The news had a depressing effect on the public mind, already depressed by the published announcement that the British casualties in the war had reached the figure of 57,000 up to October 31.

German aviators have succeeded in flying over Shecrness, a fortified seaport in Kent, at the mouth of the Thames, and forty miles from London, in Essex, according to information given to the press in Borlin.

A number of German submarines are reported again to be operating off the British constitutions.

I have heard strange stories to the effect that, after occupying the town for a few days and of October, and fortified them selves in position on either side, where they are waiting for the French and made only a short stay in Lille.

While the British and Belgian troops are given the special task of keeping the Germans from moving on Calais, the French are making serious efforts to recover Lille.

We cannot as a family speak too highly of Peruna and your other remedies. I recommend it to every one whenever I have a chance.
